

New York City Law Department
Affirmative Litigation Division
Experienced Litigation Attorney

The Affirmative Litigation Division of the New York City Law Department is seeking an experienced attorney to represent the City in a diverse and exceptionally interesting range of federal and state cases where the City appears as plaintiff to advance key policy interests and to protect the City fisc . Division attorneys handle matters involving inter-governmental disputes, municipal corruption, products liability, insurance coverage and commercial disputes.

The ideal candidate should possess the ability to develop and litigate complex cases, strong writing and analytical skills, and the capability to work independently or under supervision, as appropriate to the scale and complexity of the case. Two years of litigation experience and New York State bar admission are required.

To apply for this position, please use our on line application system to send a resume, cover letter and law school transcript (if less than seven years out of law school) addressed to:

Stuart D. Smith, Esq.
Director of Legal Recruitment
New York City Law Department
100 Church Street
New York, NY 10007

To access our on-line application and more information about the Law Department and the Affirmative Litigation Division, please visit our website at www.nyc.gov/law.

EOE/M/F/D/V